

TIME FOR A NEW NDR!

Trade up to speed, agility, better ROI and future proof your security program

Trade up from Darktrace and get up to a year of Vectra subscription credits free*

Here's what you get by trading up to Vectra

Reduce the load on your security staff:

Darktrace overwhelms your team with what's different, not always what's relevant. Vectra uses knowledge of attacker behavior, paired with deep, native integrations with best-of-breed security solutions to cut detect, investigation and response time significantly. Vectra customers achieve a 34X workload reduction for Tier-1 SOC analysts in detection, triage, correlation and prioritization of alerts

Improve your chances of preventing a breach:

Darktrace under-alerts on significant events such as recon and discovery stages of cloud attacks that could pose risks to your organization. Vectra's security-based approach to detection and response uses multiple layers to surface only what matters. Our approach minimizes security risk and empowers your security team to solve imminent threats, providing efficiency without compromising security

Prove to your board that your NDR money is well spent:

Darktrace uses simple measurements to interpret SOC performance and efficacy. Vectra's operational metrics across hundreds of deployments measure both the platform and SOC performance over time, providing valuable insight into opportunities to improve security posture

An extension of your security team:

Darktrace is a powerful marketing machine, but account teams come and go frequently. Vectra invests in long-term relationships, focuses on customer-first encounters and continuous innovation to support your ever-changing business challenges. Your success strategy now encompasses unparalleled account management, transition planning, implementation, and ongoing support
